It aims, as enunciated in the Memorandum of Association, are:

- To participate in the formulations and implementations of policies and programme relating to India's cultural relations with other countries;
- To foster and strengthen cultural relations and mutual understanding between India and other countries;
- To promote cultural exchanges with other countries and peoples;
- To establish and develop relations with national and international organizations in the field of culture.

ICCR has been playing an equally important role in the field of education for international students in India. It offers a number of scholarships to foreign nationals to pursue higher studies in Indian Universities and other recognized institutes of higher education and learning.

India has been an attraction to the foreign students since ancient times. Scholarships are a great initiative to encourage foreign nationals to study and appreciate ancient Indian systems of medicine, performing arts and culture, and also contemporary subjects, including science, technology, liberal arts, engineering, agriculture and law. These are also a way to create an outreach - a feeling of goodwill about India and to apprise the world that India has to offer in cultural and academic fields.

Through its scholarship programme, people from different parts of the world have been immensely benefitted. On the one hand, ICCR helped various countries in capacity-building by providing scholarships to foreign students in the professional fields like engineering, agriculture, management etc. and, on the other hand, promoted Indian culture by providing scholarships to pursue courses in Indian dance, music, yoga, ayurveda and Indian languages. Many of ICCR Alumni have achieved position of influence in their respective countries and have been serving as India's goodwill Ambassadors.

Salient Features of ICCR Scholarships

India is known as an education hub attracting international students from all over the world. India's diversity and vibrant history offer a broad range of options for students. With access both to such rich and diverse as well as a rapidly growing country on the cutting edge of the technological revolution, studying in India has much to offer, whether an applicant interests in Engineering, IT, Philosophy, Politics or in Classics and many more branches of study.

As a major promoter and disseminator of culture, one of the most important tasks of ICCR is to promote international mobility. For this, the ICCR's main activity is to develop a scholarship programme for international students so as to promote cultural and academic exchanges.

ICCR with a mandate of administering scholarship programmes of Government of India annually awards about 3,800 scholarships under 20 different schemes to foreign students from about 180 countries. Amongst these 20 schemes, six are funded by ICCR from its own grant and others are administered on behalf of MEA and Ministry of AYUSH.

The courses offered for studies are for under-graduation, post-graduation and PhD levels. In every academic year ICCR holds about 7000 plus foreign students who study at various Central/State University, Institutes, NITs and Agricultural Institutions etc.

Students have a wide range of options to choose from any kind of courses - not only under-graduate, post-graduate and doctoral programmes, but also professional courses, including thematic subjects like engineering, pharmacy, accountancy, business administration, management, and also culture-related courses such as Indian dance, music, painting, sculpture, and so on.

Salient Features of ICCR Scholarships

To make foreign students feel at home and bring in contact with Indian families, the Council arranges cultural immersion programmes, orientation programmes for the newly-arrived students and also solicit participation of international students in ICCR's cultural activities. The Council also celebrates Indian festivals like Republic Day, Independence Day, Diwali, Holi, etc.

Scholarship Programmes are managed by Regional offices ensuring welfare of the foreign students spread across all over India.

My second visit to India happened in 2018 finally after 5th application to the ICCR annual application process for pursuing my PhD degree. I travelled to Kerala for the first time, but for me all states of India were like my second home so I was sure I will like it to stay and study in the University of Kerala.

ICCR provides a good opportunity to study and develop both personally and professionally for all students under its scholarship schemes. It broadens our personal view and educates us on many events and situations happening in the world and creates learning and developing environment for all international students in India. Stay in Kerala under ICCR scholarship gave me opportunity to apply my capacity and develop my skills in academic stream. I found out my abilities and participated in various academic and cultural programs which ICCR arranged for us as international students. As an international student in India we always experience the rich blend of hospitality and high respect to global community in the University of Kerala in all academic levels like bachelor, Master or PhD candidates.

ICCR provides us with wide scope of activities, World Theatre Day, World Yoga Day, and many more and it cares for our wellbeing. Thanks to ICCR because during stay in Kerala we feel like at home.

During my stay in Goa as a Master's student under ICCR Scholarship, life was really very nice and interesting. I particularly experienced an intriguing culture where people from different environment live peacefully and respect each other regardless of their differences. Most importantly, I found Goa University to be a lovely educational institution. I enjoyed the way the lecturers interact with all students without any exception and the latter expressed themselves a mutual cooperation in their community. This helped me get wonderful skills and knowledge through learning and made me not to feel alone in a foreign country. Finally, the ICCR international desk care so much about international students to make sure every international student is safe and getting a healthy life.

India is one of among oldest countries in the world that has its own prominent identity. It is not only in this modern day that people go to India and pursue their study. Even for centuries ago, people from various countries came along and pursue their study at Nalanda University, one of the oldest universities in the world. I was one of the lucky scholars from Indonesia that granted the chance to study in India through the General Scholarship Scheme by Indian Council for Cultural Relations for Post Graduate Course. I have a special curiosity about India since childhood that driven me to apply for this scholarship. The study which conducted in English Medium makes every student from any part of the world can easily adapt with the learning environment. The availability of textbooks from various reputable publishers will boost our knowledge and make the study easier. ICCR Regional Director where I studied as well as the International Advisor are amazing and great personalities. They will always be there as our core supporter in any difficult situations that we can't handle all alone. And they treat us just like their family. As a newcomer, we indeed will face many challenges in India. But build a mentality that we must finish what we start beautifully and successfully. And if the scholars keep that principle in their mind, we will have a clear vision and mission during the stay of study duration there and we can complete the course successfully and with good marks. India has 29 states and 7 union territories that we can make our own choice of stay destination to pursue the study. And in between the stay, we can travel and visit places that we might have seen in movies or on social media. So, enjoy the stay for the new students, work smart and hard for the study. May the success and happiness be yours.

Mohammed Abunahel,

Masters Mass Communication,
Tezpur Central University

I'm a student from Palestine, pursuing Masters in Mass Communication from Tezpur Central University, Tezpur, Assam. My experience as an international student has, overall, been positive; I have changed in ways I would never have imagined. I am from Palestine, and India, to say the least, is an extremely different environment than where I used to live. I have come to India for higher studies through an ICCR scholarship (Indian Council for Cultural Relations), but experiencing a new culture, new food habits and making new friends – all these things have summed up into something significant in my life and memory which makes me no longer feel like a stranger. I have celebrated Indian festivals such as Holi and Saraswati Puja. During my time here, I have picked up a little bit of the Assamese language and learned how to speak it; I have made lifelong friends with unforgettable memories. I learned to cook some Assamese dishes, participated in such activities as the wildlife safari in Nameri national park, and learned endless things about Hinduism and other dynamic Indian religions and culture.

As an international student at Tezpur University, I grew to be proud of my University, and I truly feel like I am a part of this community. Education in India is not bound to a classroom; ICCR gave me an opportunity to travel to different places. This chance allowed me to visit some places of South India. I explored the villages in different places of India and experienced their way of living. This trip let me enjoy the natural beauty of India; with my friends, I visited places like Sikkim, Shillong, Cherrapunjee, Tezpur, Bangalore and many more. Every place has its own natural beauty and unique culture. This trip not only let me enjoy the natural beauty of India, but also helped me to make some friends with unforgettable memories.

It is worth mentioning here the people who helped me: my friend Robert Fantina who supports me with material and encouragement; Dr. Prasanta K. Das, the director of the international office, and Dr. Joya Chakraborty, the head of the mass communication and journalism department, who gave me a chance to travel to Jordan to get my visa and come back.

Last but not least, the moment I had been waiting for came true. This is a great opportunity to extend my warmest appreciation to India and to the ICCR for allowing me to be part of this wonderful community. Honestly, India is a great place to study and I really like India, so I am contemplating to continue further advanced study here. I can hardly wait to perceive what different encounters and experiences are coming up for me in the coming months!

It is my pleasure to write to your esteemed office confirming that I have completed my M.Sc in Analytical Chemistry from K.J Somaiya College of Science and Commerce. I would like to write a word of thanks for all the tireless work that you have given us at your capacity as a person and at the level of the ICCR.

As one of the beneficiaries of ICCR Scholarship I would like to thank the ICCR and the government of India for their generous, financial support towards my higher education.

During my two years in India I have learned many things from India that have sharpened my world view and will help me in the whole journey of my life. All the spheres of life have been changed and I will never forget what India has added to my life and believe that this will be my second home and will not hesitate to come back here when there is need.

Conclusively, this opportunity has allowed me to make my goals and dream a reality. I hope in turn one day I will be able to give back and help others get their dreams and goals a reality. Thank you very much.

Nalanda University

I am very grateful for receiving ICCR scholarship. It helps me continue my studies at Nalanda University. Thanks to your support, I can dedicate all of my time to study, to deepen my knowledge on Buddhism as well as other Indian traditions. I have learned a lot at Nalanda University. Due to its diverse approach, the students can have a large picture of various Indian philosophical schools and religions where Buddhism has been a part of. Although I could stay in India for the short period of one academic year (due to Covid-19 restrictions), I had many interesting experiences there. Briefly saying, I realized how the locals, at least those I observed in Nalanda, lived close to the natural environment. They used dung fuel for cooking, dried grass for binding vegetables (instead of rubber bands), used - newspapers for wrapping things (instead of plastic bags), etc. Those simple things show how the people love the Mother Nature. I think it is the best way to preserve our planet- through care and love. I hope this eco-friendly way of living will not be distorted via inappropriate modernization. It sends a very positive message to protect our Earth in the most practical manner. the possibility to understand more the profundity of Indian philosophy about which I had not known much before.

I had had a mistaken idea about India before getting the ICCR scholarship, without which I would not come to India and I would not complete my higher studies. To me, India was the country of Amitabh Bachchan and Shahrukh Khan and nothing else. However, having the chance to come to India was like giving some blind fellow eyes to take a real look at what there is. I came to know what India is for real. Yes, India is the country of movies, dancing, singing, and arts, but also, it is the country of fast development, technology, diversity, and humanity. Further, nothing is more significant than giving a person the chance to have a better career, a better job, and a better income. All are possible now with the knowledge and skills I got under the generous sponsorship of the ICCR. I believe that all the ICCR students and scholars, just like myself, will always be thankful to the ICCR for giving them the chance to learn, improve, and know this great future-leading country in a better way. I love the ICCR; I love India.

My journey in India began 2016, from day one I was fascinated by the large population, for the 1st time in my life I was surrounded by so many people, as my journey continued I was adapting to the new lifestyle and society, I learned the importance of education in shaping a prosperous society through the teachings of Jawaharlal Nehru and B. R Ambedkar. I also noticed that India is a country that is diverse and rich in culture, through events organized by ICCR- Hyderabad. I was exposed to some of the cultures which includes the likes of Kuchipudi and Kathak dance and the universal humanitarian culture inspired by Mahatma Gandhi Teachings, the astonishing food culture and various Indian cuisines most famously bryan. Those with similar experience will always say incredible India.

I, Anush Gasparyan, from Armenia did my Ph.D (Law) at the Faculty of Law University of Delhi on ISSUES RELATED TO WORKING WOMEN IN ORGANISED SECTOR: A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF LAWS AND PRACTICE IN INDIA AND ARMENIA from 2016 to 2021.

"My parents gave me wings, taught me to fly and ICCR provided me sky, with no limits..."

To go, to say goodbye is always hard, it is harder when you leave a family behind. ICCR is the family that I am leaving behind in my second home India.

Role of ICCR in the journey of the achievement of the set goals of a foreign student is remarkable. ICCR is not a mere an organization providing financial support for educational purposes, ICCR is a strong pillar of each foreigner traveling behind the dreams of success and illumination. Each member of the ICCR family, stands for motivating, encouraging, comforting, securing, advising throughout stay and education in India.

I express my gratitude to the Embassy of India in Armenia for introducing ICCR and providing me with the opportunity to continue my education and discover the beauty of India.

India is the land which carries the earliest history of our kinsman Aryan blood. The land of great teachings, the land of Ganges, Buddha, the land which faced Mohammedan conquest and the settlement of Dutch, Portuguese, English and French. The country called Hindustan was and is a gem in the earth with its unique ability of uniting its nation. India's biggest triumph is being true to the values of its own land and religious teachings through centuries. The secret of uniting such a diverse nation is tolerance, love and respect of others' way of life. The country has a beautiful harmonization for every being of its land. This is the place where every teaching is directed to the art of balancing. From insects to plants, from fishes to birds, from moon to sun, from rain to wind, from human to animal every single aspect of the planet has its own significance and importance in this country.

Going ahead in life, being exposed to a change is a natural phenomenon, however there are some changes that are shaping our personality and life; hence I am leaving with the most valuable treasures of India which are wisdom, tolerance, kindness, respect, mindfulness etc. Qualities gained in India, with the help of ICCR are life changing.

I fold my hands and bow my head with the immense respect for everyone at the ICCR and Embassy of India in Armenia for their hard work and care I have been provided during years of my education.
